LASOING A PANTHER

HOW A HUNTING PARTY IN TEXAS FOUND A QUEER PET.

A Ferocious Animal Captured in Cowboy Fashion—How a Daring Negro Got One of the Cubs—The Mother and Her Children in Captivity.

Those who conclude that there are no ferocious or dangerous wild animals in the mountains of western Texas would experience a very sudden change of sentiment if they should meet a panther face to face in some lonely canyon. The magnificent animal now chained in front of our wagons is called by some a Mexican or mountain lion and by others a panther. She is of a dull yellowish color and will weigh more than four or five ordinary leopards. She measures just 11 feet from the tip of her nose to the end of her long tail.

Although she has been in captivity only a few days she is astonishingly docile so long as she can see her two cubs that are chained under the wagons. The moment they set up a whine she springs to her feet, all her hair turns the wrong way, and while her eyes look like glowing coals of fire she gnashes her sharp white fangs and tries the strength of her chain. If it were not strong enough to hold an ox, I should prefer that there were two or three counties between us just at that particular moment. The cubs are already as gentle as lambs and as playful as kittens, and nothing pleases them better than to crawl under our blankets at night and cuddle up close to us to escape the chilly northers.

We captured her in the mountains of the Deal river in western Texas, and I doubt if a more daring feat was ever accomplished by a crowd of hunters. Game of all kinds is very abundant in this region, and the boys had tried of shooting deer, antelopes and turkeys. Several big wolves and two or three panthers had been slaughtered, and it was evident from the numerous tracks about the water holes that there were plenty more of them in the mountains. One evening the hounds struck a hot trail and ran a big panther into a cave on the side of a mountain.

That night while discussing the adventures incident to the day's hunt two daring young men, Petmaker and Black, declared that they intended to hang a noose over the mouth of the animal's den on the next day and capture her alive. Both are Texas reared boys and experienced hunters. The proposition met with unanimous approval, and all volunteered to assist in the desperate undertaking. The next day as we rode out of camp some of the boys grew bolder, and two of them, who were expert vaqueros, declared that they intended to rope the beast if they could get close enough to her. These two—young Petmaker of Menard county and George Black of Austin—rode toward the den, and the other members of the party and negro Jim, who had charge of the hounds, started to beat up the valley.

We had gone but a short distance before the dogs struck a hot trail and ran with yelps which indicated that they were close to the animal. Petmaker and Black heard them coming and reined in their ponies on the edge of a little opening and unslinging their rawhide ropes from the horns of their saddles. The big animal sprang out of the brush and stopped within 20 feet of Petmaker. The cowboy's lariat flashed through the air and landed right around the wild animal's neck.

The instant it touched her she screamed like a terror stricken woman and, leaping high in the air and gnashing her teeth, began to decrease the space between her and the daredevil at the other end of the rope. Black, who was too far away to co-operate with his comrade at first, was now on the field, and with lucky precision he hurled a second noose over the animal's head. Both wheeled their ponies, and the trained animals made a leap in opposite directions. The ropes were drawn taut, and the big monster was choked to the earth.

While she was rolling on the grass and claying at the noose another expert with the rope galloped and caught one of her hind feet. They could now easily hold her at a safe distance from each other, and after much excitement and many rather dangerous stratagems they succeeded in dragging her to a good camping place not far away. Since at that stage of her captivity we could not move her to the wagons, we moved the wagons to her, and putting a stout chain around her neck, we made her fast to a tree.

Some of the hounds were set baying at the cave, and one of the boys and the negro Jim went over there to call them off. An old dog ran into the den and came out yelping with a young jaguar about the size of a house cat hanging to his hide. They captured the cub, and then the negro crawled into the den and brought out another—a thing that I would not have done for a deed to Texas.

The cubs soon made friends with us and were ready to eat from our hands or crawl upon our knees in a few days. When the mother saw her children in captivity, she set up an awful roar, but when they were put down by her side she seemed to be very grateful and soon afterward made a hearty meal off a large piece of venison that was thrown to her. After a few days she seemed to become perfectly reconciled to the new order of things and is now on the lookout for something to eat. Negro Jim sits her on the back and leads her about like a lamb. The hounds have made friends with her, and nothing pleases her better than for our bird dog to play with her. She could easily throttle the largest bull on the plains and toss a man about as a cat does a mouse. We have named her Miss Vixen.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

There are more than 200 tobacco plantations on the east coast of Europe.

Appetite of the Florida Alligator.

The Florida alligator has an appetite that is hard to appease. A fisherman, weary with ill luck, pulled off his boots, stretched himself on the river's green bank and went to sleep. A saurian in search of a dinner spied the sleeping fisherman, crawled up the bank, swallowed him and retired in good order. But after a time he remembered that the late fisherman's boots were also reposing on the bank. A dinner without dessert was no dinner at all, so he returned to taper off on the boots. But while he was in the act of swallowing them another fisherman, recently arrived, shot him dead. Probably the moral in this story is, "Some alligators never know when they have enough."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Successful.

He—The trouble with too many people in this world is that they never stop to think. She—Yes, but I notice that the most successful people are the ones that don't have to stop to think.—Chicago News.

Time It Was Retired.

"Yes, that is a pretty good bicycle joke. But"— "Well, what?" "It has made quite a number of century runs."—Philadelphia North American.

Not Always.

"Remember, my boy," said Uncle James as he gave Bobby a coin, "that if you take care of the pennies the shillings will take care of themselves." Bobby looked a trifle dubious. "I do take care of the pennies," he replied, "but as soon as they get to be shillings pa takes care of 'em."—London Tit-Bits.

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advertised, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibit it, and return to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given to the Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Colonel Hardin of Humboldt went up to the Capital yesterday and returned last evening. He says there will be a great scarcity of feed on the ranges this summer unless we have copious rains before the middle of June.

Any subscriber not receiving their JOURNAL promptly will please report at this office in person or by postal and the trouble will be looked after. A number of complaints have been made lately and it is proposed to find out who is to blame.

FROM SEATTLE.

The Prospects of the Queen City of the North.

SEATTLE, April 5, 1898.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—As long as able to keep up my occasional scribbling to the paper I so highly prize, I shall surely do so, for without it I would be entirely in the dark as to what is going on in my much regretted State. You are to a great extent posted as regards the doings in the golden north, so I need say nothing concerning it further than what concerns this great city of the northwest. Growing it is, and the influx of people from the eastern States is so great that tenement buildings are difficult to obtain and new houses are being constantly erected and per consequence mechanics who for months previous to the Klondike excitement sought vainly for employment are now as independent as money kings.

During the past few weeks several Nevadans have been in Seattle, purchased their outfits, and gone north to seek their fortunes. Among them was Ed Reynolds, late Assemblyman, and his wife, and Will Lindsay, long time in the employ of Mr. Tobey in Carson. From Ganoo, Andy Ritchie, J. Brookline, H. Haesen and Hellwistle. All were well provided and intend staying in the frozen region till they make their pile, but, of course, this is the idea every gold seeker starts with and it is to be hoped that the Nevada boys may realize their highest expectations. Alas! how few gain their hope's desires.

I assure you that it requires no gift of prophecy to predict a glorious future for this city and State, for the past six months has proven the fact that it must be the grand commercial entrepot of the northwest and will surely control the Chinese and Japan trade.

The class of people who come from the eastern States are very different in their habits from those of California and Nevada; they lack the free, open-hand style of the westerners and appear to think more of a five cent piece than the others of a dollar, still they seem to be of a thriving class and capable of instructing westerners in matters of economy, but it seems queer to old seagrunners.

You are of course aware that the Populists have been wiped out in all the municipal elections yet held and will as surely be defeated at the State election, at least such is the general impression, but then you know near with Spain is imminent and it is hard to tell what may stir up the political pot next spring. The rush to the north still continues, one or more steamers arriving and departing every day in the week and it would astonish you to see the immense business the principal outfitting stores are doing at the city front. Jackasses and large dogs are at a premium, for scarcely a steamer leaves for the mines that does not take a score or two, also draft horses and milk cows.

I repeat my advice to all my friends and acquaintances in the Silver State who think of starting in search of gold: If possessed of a few hundred dollars, good health and determination, come north, for there are great chances for money making, not only in the northern mines, but in the States of Washington and Oregon.

Poor Dan DeQuille—I dropped a salt tear to his memory. Well, we are all on the descending scale and who knows but this may be the last of the DEACON.

Rumors of a Removal.

It was stated Monday by a prominent railroad man that he had reliable information that the entire Evanston shops and part of the shops at Laramie would be moved to Ogden at an early day. This corroborates the rumors that have been in circulation during the last few days. Such a move would necessitate the enlargement of the shop buildings at this point.

It was also stated that within the next few months the Southern Pacific would move its shops from Wadsworth and consolidate them with the shops already here. It was said to be the plan to build additional buildings here to accommodate the increased work which would necessarily be done in these shops. A Southern Pacific official who was asked last evening as to the truth of this statement said he knew very little about the matter except he had heard that such a move had been contemplated, but how seriously he could not state.—Ogden correspondent, Salt Lake Tribune.

Pleasure Among the Wheelmen.

The Reno Wheelmen have arranged for a house-warming in their new club-rooms this Tuesday evening. A committee has been busily engaged in preparing a program, comprising singing, sketches, athletic exhibitions and musical selections by its members, when the Wheelmen's band will also make its first appearance before the club, after which the evening's amusement will conclude with a luncheon. The affair is open to club members only. No exceptions to this rule will be made. The boys expect to spend a most pleasant evening, which will be only one of the many good times they intend having during the coming season. The club now numbers one hundred and thirty members, young men of the city, thus making it the standard bearer of all social organizations.

Accidentally Killed.

Eugene B. Cuts, a former resident of Reno and Carson, whose death at Redlands, Cal., was announced several days ago, was killed while crossing a trestle bridge by a fallen tree. Cuts slipped and fell on the rocky bottom and was instantly killed.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

It Will Probably be Organized To-morrow.

In these days of scant pasturage and splenic fever in California, the Board of Health of Nevada is a very important body. Under the laws of the State no cattle, sheep or horses from south of the 36th parallel of latitude can be shipped into the state unless the animals have been quarantined for at least ninety days north of that line and then only after inspection by the State Board of Health at the expense of the stock owners and a certificate from the Board that the animals are free from infectious and contagious disease.

It is important that the Board should be organized and it is probable that Dr. Gibson and Dr. Patterson will go to Carson to-morrow with D. J. Guinan of that city, complete the organization. The Board will then have full authority, under the law, to prevent diseased animals from entering the State and to establish quarantine regulations.

A train load of horses from Button Wilcox, near Bakersfield, California, to be shipped to Winnemucca, now awaits inspection and a certificate that the animals are free from disease, to enter the State.

Signal Corps Practicing.

The Signal Corps of Company C were out for practice yesterday, stationing themselves at various points and communicating to each other by their apparatus. The work was successful and the boys are becoming adepts at the business.

Fred Gould and Caffery were stationed at Rattlesnake Butte east of Eufakera. While selecting a proper position for their work, they scared up a good sized rattler. Both saw his snakeship about the same time and the expression on their faces changed rapidly from horror to doubt then inquisitiveness, but they did not utter a word. Finally Fred in as cool a manner as he could command and with his usual suavity said: "Caffery, did you see a snake?" Caffery replied, in his blunt style: "Whatinell's matter with you; is that snake bite antidote Riter gave us having that kind of an effect?" Fred turned pale and said he wasn't feeling very well, when Caffery could not disguise the relief he felt in his own mind and admitted that he, too, saw the snake but was afraid at first it was an optical illusion and meant something serious, but as long as both had seen it he guessed they were all right. They then proceeded to declare war on the rattler and recalled all the Spanish lingo they had ever heard, while dispatching him. They brought the rattler's tail feathers home as a trophy and to convince their friends that they had seen a real snake. The rattles indicated a seven-year-old varmint.

A Good Roadmaker.

Edwin McIntyre, who lives a hermit life in the house near Warren where Dr. Pitton E. Baker was shot, has a queer hobby. One of the prettiest and best pieces of road in Maine passes in front of his retreat. It has been built by Mr. McIntyre, who for the last 23 years has been picking up the rocks and stones near his home and pouncing them into pebbles, which he has put in the highway. In 23 years' time he has pounded 900,000 stones and made them ready for road use. The town authorities, recognizing the value of the work, for years have compensated the man by giving him his road tax. He estimates that he has placed on the road 20 cords of these manufactured stones. Other towns might envy Warren such a faithful roadbuilder.—Rockland (Me.) Star.

BIDS FOR MUNICIPAL BONDS WANTED.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF THAT certain Act of the Legislature of the State of Nevada entitled "An Act to Incorporate the Town of Reno," approved March 8, 1897, and of an affirmative vote of the electors of the City of Reno at a special election held on the 7th day of October, 1897, written bids are invited and will be received until April 11, 1898, at 8 o'clock P. M.

Of said day for the purchase of the bonds of the City of Reno in the sum of $130,000, any part thereof, not less than the sum of $500, to be known and designated as "Reno Water Works Bonds." Also for the purchase of the bonds of the City of Reno in the further sum of $30,000, or any part thereof, not less than the sum of $500, to be known as and designated as "Reno Electric Light Bonds." All of said bonds to bear interest at the rate of six per cent, payable annually. The principal of said bonds to mature and be payable in equal annual installments between and including the sixth and twentieth years from their date of issuance and the date of the said payments to be designated upon the face of the said bonds. Both the principal and the interest of the said bonds to be payable at maturity in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Reno at Reno, Nevada. No bids for the said bonds or any thereof will be considered if for less than the par value thereof or if for a less amount than the sum of $500, and the right is expressly reserved to reject any and all bids. The constitutionality of the above mentioned Act of the Legislature and the regularity and the legality of the above mentioned special election have been sustained by a comprehensive decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada, a copy of which together with other pertinent information will be furnished to prospective bidders upon application therefore being made to the City Clerk. Bidders should designate in their respective bids the redemption year of the bonds for which they bid. All bids must be sealed, endorsed, "Bids for Reno Bonds," and directed to F. B. Porter, City Clerk, Reno, Nevada.

STATEMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS OF RENO WATER WORKS AND ELECTRIC LIGHT BONDS.

THE CITY OF RENO WAS INCORPORATED by a special Act of the Legislature of the State of Nevada, approved March 8, 1897. It is the largest city on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad between Sacramento, California, and Ogden, Utah, has had a steady and continuous growth ever since its inception and is situated in the midst of the richest agricultural and stock raising country between the Sierra Nevada and the Rocky mountains. Its resources are agricultural and pastoral rather than those of mines. It is the terminus of the V. & T. R. R. extending south with its connection three hundred and fifty miles, and also of the N. C. & O. R. R. extending north eighty miles. It is the seat of the State University, of the State Hospital for Mental Diseases, and of the State Agricultural Society. At the general election of 1896 it cast 1300 votes and its present estimated population is 6,500. Its assessed valuation in the year 1897 was the sum of $1,745,390 which was upon a low and very conservative basis of valuation. Its total bonded indebtedness from all sources is $45,000. The total rate of taxation in the year 1897 for State, county, and local purposes was $2.87 on each one hundred dollar valuation.

By its Incorporation Act the City is authorized, subject to an affirmative vote of its electors, to issue its bonds in a sum not exceeding $150,000 for procuring water and constructing municipal water works, and in a necessary sum for constructing municipal electric light works. A special election was called by the City Council for October 7, 1897 at which election the electors of the city voted in favor of bonding the city in the sum of $130,000 for municipal water works and in the sum of $20,000 for a municipal electric light plant by a vote of 409 in favor of and 130 against. In December 1897 an action in quo warranto was instituted in the Supreme Court of Nevada by Mr. A. G. Fletcher in which the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act was assailed upon twelve distinct grounds and also in which the legality, regularity, and sufficiency of the special election held on October 7, 1897, was questioned. On the 23rd day of February 1898, the Supreme Court of Nevada filed its unanimous opinion in the action in which it sustained the constitutionality of the Incorporation Act, and the legality, regularity, and the sufficiency of the special election, in each and every particular. The City Council is authorized by law to raise the necessary funds with which to meet the bond interest charges and to liquidate the principal by either direct taxation of all property or by water and light charges against users or by both.

Women Who Are Insured.

America's richest women are not believers in life insurance to an amount proportionate to their means. Nothing under $50,000 is considered heavy insurance, and, according to the latest list of prominent patrons of life insurance, scarcely a score of American women carry policies of this amount or greater.

Mrs. George Hearst of San Francisco holds a policy on her life of $300,000. Only two other women in America can come anywhere near touching this figure. Mrs. A. White of Gardiner, Me., comes next to Mrs. Hearst, with a policy of $175,000.

Mrs. Margaret B. Crocker, mother-in-law of the rich Elmira politician, Jacob Sloat Fassett, is insured for $150,000. Her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Fassett, carries $100,000 more. Mrs. Crocker is the widow of Judge E. B. Crocker of California, whose fortune came from the Central Pacific railroad. She makes her home with the Fassetts.

Denver has two rich women who believe in heavy insurance.—Mrs. Mary E. Eckhart, who pays premiums on a policy of $185,000, and Mrs. Martha J. Cranmer, to whose heirs will go her insurance of $100,000.

The Disston saw family of Philadelphia carries the enormous insurance of $1,800,000. The round million is on the life of Hamilton Disston. On the life of his wife, Mrs. E. Disston, is a policy of $100,000. Of their sons, Hamilton C. is insured for $800,000 and William for $100,000.

Mrs. M. W. Lux, widow of Charles Lux, cattle king of California, is insured for $100,000. The same amount is carried by Mrs. Gage E. Tarbell of Chicago, while Mr. Tarbell is insured for twice as much.

Pearl Wight of New Orleans is insured for $80,000 and Mrs. Lauretta B. Gibson of Cincinnati for $70,000.

These women are known to carry policies of $50,000: Mrs. Lorena Bailey and Mrs. E. S. Ransom of Louisville, Mrs. Lorena S. Standiford of Paducah, Ky.; Mrs. Harwood of Atlanta, Mrs. Edward Lowe of Grand Rapids, Miss Julia Hills of Muskegon, Mich.; Mrs. A. A. Huestis of Chicago, Mrs. Juana A. Neal of Los Angeles, Mrs. Emeline Wallace of San Francisco, and Mrs. Caroline C. Sinclair of Cedar Rapids, Ia., whose husband, T. M. Sinclair, was a millionaire pork packer.
